The intention to file a petition against the reconstruction act, on behalf of Arkansas, has been abandoned, the Governor of that State thinking an adverse decision would result unfavorably to the interests of his constituents. Mr. Charles O'Connor expresses himself as thoroughly satisfied that an injunction will be issued to restrain the execution of the reconstruction measures, as against the parties embraced by the Georgia bill, and declares that the Court cannot evade the question without disgrace. The Southern States have the same constitutional status as before the war; that to maintain that status was the object of the war, as repeatedly resolved by Congress itself, and it is idle for any person or power now to ignore that fact, as it would be to question the result. On the other hand, Mr. Caleb Cushing advances the opinion that the injunction cannot issue against the Secretary of War any more than it can against the President himself; because the official acts of that Secretary are the executive acts of the President, and the Secretary is the executive agent of the President. Hence it is, that the Courts have always held that writs of mandamus will not lie to compel the heads of any Executive Department to do any act, the performance of which is within their official discretion.

The arrest in the case of Joseph B. Stewart, Daniel Draw, and Fisk & Dalden, for alleged fraud in connection with the Erie Railroad stock "pools," was vacated on Tuesday by Judge Barnard, of the New York Supreme Court, on the ground that one partner cannot obtain an order of arrest against his co-partner for failure to pay over his share of the profits, and that the plaintiff's remedy is by an action for non-accounting. The condition is also stipulated that the defendants are not to sue the plaintiff.

The vote of the Chicago municipal election, on Tuesday, was less than 20,000. The Republican candidate for Mayor was elected by a majority of 3,933, and the Council stands twenty-four Republicans and eight Democrats.

WASHINGTON, April 17, 1867.

THE TENURE OF OFFICE MATTER.

The President to-day replied to the resolution of the Senate calling for copies of any official opinions which have been given by the Attorney General, the Solicitor of the Treasury or any other officer of the Government, on the interpretation of the act of Congress regulating the tenure of office, especially in regard to the appointments by the President during the recess of Congress. This resolution having been referred to the Secretary of the Interior, Secretary of State, Secretary of War, Attorney General and Postmaster General, they, severally, report they have given no opinion upon the subject. The Secretary of the Treasury, however, in his reply submits a transcript of a letter addressed by him to the Solicitor of that department together with his reply.

These contain all the information he has on the subject. Secretary McCulloch writes to the Solicitor March 9th: In view of the possibility that the commissions of the chief officers of customs at the several ports may, within a few days, expire by Constitutional limitation, before successors have been appointed, I have the honor to request your opinion as to what legal provisions exist for the administration of the duties of officers of Collector, Naval Offices and Surveyors, during the time one or more of them are vacant, after the expiration of the commissions of the present incumbents, and in view of the imminence of the emergency, I would request the favor of an early reply.

The Solicitor of the Treasury, on the 7th of March, replies that no distinct or clear provision has been made by Congress on the subject. At first view it would seem to be a casus omissus, and that offices would remain vacant, or in abeyance, until new appointments could be made. This would, however, be a public calamity, and offices must, as a matter of necessity, be constantly filled, as the duties are to be performed day by day, and are different from most other offices in the republic. In view of this fact it is not to be presumed that Congress intended to omit a provision for the exigency, but, on the other hand, considered such a provision actually made, in many cases the law provides in terms that an officer once appointed shall hold office until a successor be qualified; but no express provision of that kind is made here. Again, in certain offices vacancies are held from necessity to hold over in this manner. But this has not, I believe, been the usage of our government in relation to the office in question. The act of March 5th, 1867, empowered collectors, with the approbation of the Secretary, to appoint deputies, and declared such deputies should be officers of Customs (3d Statute, 397.) A deputy is in law but the shadow of his principal, has a partial rule, and his tenure of office ceases with that of the Collector. The act alluded to, however, seems to elevate the grade of office to a certain extent, and make the deputy's office a distinct one, in some respects at least. It may be Congress intended he should act in the exigency of vacation. I am by no means, clear on the point, yet the absence of any other provision, and in view of the public necessity, I recommend that you authorize the special Deputy Collector to act. But the same reasoning does not strictly apply to the cases of Naval Officers and Surveyors, whose respective commissions have expired; but convenience requires the same rule, and in the absence of other provisions I think you may be warranted in following it. I have the honor to be, &c.

[Signed.] EDWARD JOURDAN,
Solicitor of the Treasury.

Hon. H. McCULLOCH,
Secretary of Treasury.

EX-GOV. JOHNSTON'S CASE.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
SOLICITOR'S OFFICE, March 26, 1867.

SIR: I have received through Mr. Creery your verbal request for my opinion on certain questions relating to the office of Collector of Customs at Philadelphia. It appears that Mr. Johnston received from the President a temporary appointment during the recess prior to the last session of the Senate, and a nomination for a permanent appointment during the session, which nomination, so Mr. Johnston informed me, term expired at the end of the session, whereupon, no other nomination having been made, the Secretary of the Treasury, in order to avoid a total suspension of the functions of the Collector, directed E. R. Myer, special deputy of the late Collector, to perform the duties of the office for the time being. The questions propounded to me are: whether, under the circumstances, the Secretary can now remove Mr. Myer and appoint a successor, or devolve the duties of the office upon another? Whether he could do during the recess of the Senate? And finally, who, in case of the the death or resignation of Mr. Myer, could perform the duties, and by whose authority? In reply, I have to say I think you have the power to remove Mr. Myer, for good cause, affecting public interest, either now or during the recess of the Senate, and in the event of such removal, it is competent for you to designate some one of the other deputies of the Collector to perform the duties of the office. I think the same action would be proper in case of the death or resignation Mr. Myer. Perhaps, in making such designation, it would be advisable to select the oldest deputy, provided there were no special reasons to the contrary. These powers are not conferred on you by any express provisions of the law, but they seem to me to result from the imperative necessity of avoiding a total suspension of the functions imposed upon you to superintend the collection of revenue. It is, perhaps, proper for me to add, that I have read this letter to the Attorney General, and he concurs in the views it expresses. I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,
EDWARD JOURDAN,
Solicitor of the Treasury.

Hon. H. McCULLOCH,
Secretary of the Treasury.

COLORED PEOPLE ADDRESSED.

The colored people of Georgetown and Freedmen's Village, who celebrated the anniversary of emancipation in the District of Columbia, to-day, were addressed by Mayor Welch and others, Governor Morton, of Indiana, in the course of his speech said the late war was begun for the perpetuation of slavery, but Providence ordained that it should result in the destruction of slavery and the enfranchisement of the whole colored race. The colored people were now called upon for their votes, and opposing parties would claim their suffrages, and it would be a matter of importance to the entire country how these votes were cast. They must inquire who were their friends in the past, who gave them liberty first, and the right of suffrage afterwards. When they answered these questions they could easily determine how to vote. The orator pressed upon his auditors the importance of education and industry to fit them for the discharge of all the duties of citizens. The great example of Congress, in making universal suffrage, rules in all the Southern States, and must now be followed in the Northern States. He spoke half an hour, and was frequently interrupted by applause. In conclusion he said, the event they were celebrating must ever be a great one in their lives, and they must from it learn to love liberty and its principle and as an inheritance due to all, without distinction of race or color.

LATE CONDENSED NEWS.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

The Times' special says: The appointment of L. V. Boxy, late Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as a general Indian Agent to make treaties, purchase and ship supplies, etc., will be further investigated by the Senate. It turns out that in this capacity Mr. Bogy virtually assumes all the duties of the Commissioner, and that officer finds himself merely a cipher in his own Department. Mr. Bogy is now in New York making purchases of goods for the Indian service, and exercising authority for which it is alleged there is not a shadow of right, and without even a record of his appointment to be found in the Indian service.

THE LUXEMBURG QUESTION.

A Berlin telegram of the 4th of April says: Intelligence received here from Hague announces that the Dutch government officially informed the Prussian Cabinet that the sale of Luxemburg has not been effected, and will not be carried out under the consent of Prussia.

The London Times says it is a disgrace to the French Government that the Luxemburg scheme should ever have been entertained. France will show her deference for European opinion by abandoning this disgraceful negotiation, which would not only unite all Germany against her, but break off the intimate friendship which prevails between her and other European powers.

A Paris telegram of the 5th says the French Government has still under consideration the proposition to cede Luxemburg to France. It considers the engagements entered into by the King of Holland too binding for him to withdraw without the consent of France.

Lord Stanley, in giving some explanations in the House of Lords, says the cession of the King of Holland was, from the first, made conditional upon that of the people of Luxemburg, and also upon the consent of Prussia. If a satisfactory vote is not taken, consent of Prussia would be given, and if these conditions were not fulfilled the transaction will go to the ground. He had returned a reply to that effect to Prussia. He had since learned that the Prussian officers in the pay of the King of the Netherlands that the negotiations were at an end. Lord Stanley said he had not considered it necessary on this part of the Government to communicate with Holland and France on the subject.

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

In Pennsylvania and New York certain Republican journals have spoken with great plainness in reference to the dishonest practices which abound in and about the Legislatures of those States. At the risk of doing their party some damage they have shown a disposition to do the public a service. The Democrats, instead of seconding their endeavors, seek to turn these inculpations to their advantage. With a sanctimonious assurance they exclaim, Turn these disreputable fellows out, and put us in, and see how incorruptibly we will behave. What they care for is not the rectification of abuses, but to get back into power.

Now we doubt not there is a fair proportion of honest men among the democrats, and we have said, and now repeat, that we prefer such to the dishonest members of our own party. But we do not suspect that in proportion to numbers the democrats have anything to boast of in point of integrity. They have been tried both at Harrisburg and Washington, and have turned out a full average of scamps in all departments. Indeed, as long ago as when General JACKSON was President, it was held to be wisdom to retain a notorious plunderer in office distinctly on the ground that his pockets were full, whereas, if he should be put out, and another substituted, the new democrat would fill his pockets likewise. The correspondence on this head was laid before Congress, and by its order spread before the country. No attempt was ever made to deny this record or to explain it away. That was in the early day when democracy was comparatively young and pure. That it has grown any better since we lack evidence for believing.

Let any man scrutinize the votes recorded during the late session of our Legislature, on bills commonly reported to have "money in them," and he will not come out of the investigation with the idea that the democratic members were careful to "avoid the appearance of evil." Take the Free Railroad Bill as one, and the Connellsville Railroad bill as another. Take all the bills of this class, and see if the democrats did not dirty themselves as freely and entirely as the republicans.

We do not make these suggestions to exculpate or extenuate the conduct of republicans; but to show that legislative corruption, which has grown to appalling magnitude, is not to be combatted effectually in this way. Both parties are too deeply involved in it, for either to make capital against the other, among intelligent people, by claiming exemption, either comparative or absolute, from the contagion. In view of established facts, all boastings of immaculativeness by any party, may rather be taken as indicative of a willingness to wink and connive at the debauchery. The truth is a remedy of most searching character must be applied, or all legislation will soon become purchaseable by the highest bidder, except such as political parties may desire for their own ends as organizations. The people must take hold of this subject in earnest, resolved that the laws regulating judicial proceedings shall be so altered as to promote inquiry, not to suppress it; to bring the guilty to punishment, not to offer them immunity.

END OF A STRIKE.

THE long continued strike of the miners in the Schuylkill coal regions has terminated, and work has been resumed at the reduced prices proposed by the employers. Thus, no good has been accomplished by the strikers in that neighborhood, although their sufferings have been great, and many of them, through the force of necessity, were driven to the perpetration of robberies and other high crimes to provide for the support of their families. As a general rule, strikes result in no bettering of the condition of the working classes, but often entail great hardships. Steady low wages all the year round, in the end, prove more profitable and guarantee more comfort to the laborer than extraordinary prices for a few months of the same period. The lost time by the present "lock out" in this neighborhood can never be made up by high wages. Previous to entering upon strikes the intelligent laborer should go into a calculation of the pecuniary loses to be sustained from idle time, and deducting the sum from the advanced wages sought, learn whether he is to be gainer or loser in the balance derived. If such a course were pursued, strikes would be less numerous and the working masses much more contented and happy.

SENATOR WILSON'S EXPERIMENT at public discussion at the South was so satisfactory to himself that he proposes to renew it and on an extended scale. Probably his example will be followed by other Northern statesmen. It is well for the Southern people to be brought into personal contact with representative men of the North, particularly of the Radical school. It is important, however, that in this intercourse, the Northern men should avoid even the appearance of that haughtiness which always invariably attends eminent success. The Southern people feel their defeat bitterly enough without having their mortification intensified by the arrogant bearing of the conquerors. What is desirable is that the two sections should come to understand each other's feelings and purposes; and, in an especial manner, that at the South should perceive that which is demanded is not degradation but security.

A BIT of unexpected morality comes from the newspaper proprietors of New Orleans. At a recent meeting they decided to issue no papers on Mondays, in order to give all hands employed full opportunity for rest on the Sabbath.

THE oil mania is reviving in the West Virginia districts. The territory in that section has been but partially developed, and the present reaction may succeed in proving it much richer than the Pennsylvania regions.

EMIL ANNEKE, late Auditor General of Michigan, it is stated, has brought an action of libel against the Detroit Advertiser, claiming $50,000 damages. Rather a heavy amount for a politicians good name.

JOHN G. MYERS, formerly a well known railroad contractor of California, was brutally beaten to death by some roughs, in New York city, on Monday last.

THE Maine colonists in Jaffa appear to have found a land "flowing with milk and honey." They find food abundant, and are quite contented and happy.

OFFICE BROKERAGE at Washington has assumed a new phase. The method now is to ascertain with how small a part of the emoluments an applicant will be content, and force him into an agreement to pay over the residue to certain outsiders. Precisely who share in this overplus, and in what proportions, has not been fully found out. But the arrangement, from top to bottom, is disgraceful to all who are concerned in it.

IT IS ASCERTAINED that of all the fires occurring in the city of New York full thirty per cent. proceed from incendiarism. The motive is more frequently to recover insurance rather than revenge. If this evil shall continue to increase the rates for insurance will be carried so high that honest people will be compelled to carry their own risks.

IN NEW YORK JOURNALS it is proposed, since votes in the Legislature have become regular articles of traffic, to have the rates quoted statedly in Wall street.

The Threatening War—Can Napoleon Afford to be Baffled?—Excited State of Feeling in France—A General European War Imminent.

[From the London Spectator, March 30.]

A war with a power organized for battle as Germany now is, with an army of at least three quarters of a million, and an armed population behind her of forty millions, is an enterprise which no people not alarmed for its existence, or wounded in its honor, would be willing to undertake. Frenchmen must surrender all hope of their "natural boundary," the frontier of the Rhine, all expectation of obtaining Belgium except with Prussian consent, all claim to decide alone on the future distribution of the Sultan's dominions. Those hopes and expectations and claims may all be unreasonable, or absurd, or selfish, but they are entertained by Frenchmen, were avowed by a man so moderate as De Tocqueville, are cherished by the rank and file of France as Americans cherish the hope of ruling America from the Isthmus to the Pole. There are signs abroad that Frenchmen are beginning to hate Prussia as they once hated England, and their hatred is by no means devoid of fear. Strange as it seems to Englishmen, Frenchmen have never forgotten 1815, never quite rid themselves of the belief that an invasion from the North, a successful invasion, is not beyond the limits of possibility. They listen to rumors about the absorption of Holland, the annexation of German Switzerland, an offensive and defensive alliance between Berlin and St. Petersburg, the agreement between Von Bismarck and Ricasoli, till they begin to feel as men felt when the First Bonaparte was on the throne, as if nothing were too horrible to be beyond their enemy's dreams. Accounts of plans drawn up by Baron Von Moltke for the invasion of France are greedily received, and photographs of M. Thiers, who denounces Germany as a danger, are demanded in such numbers that even Parisian photographers are overworked. They see, too, some substantial evidence for their fears—a government bill, for instance, which sends every able-bodied Frenchman into the ranks, a studious abstinence of the Moniteur from any allusion to the treaties with the South. If Napoleon be not alarmed, why does he risk his popularity with peasants? If he is not indignant, why does he silence the Moniteur, usually so careful to reprint all official news? The higher the popular estimate of the Emperor's sagacity, the deeper will be the apprehensions of all who believe in him, till they feel at last as if they, Frenchmen, the race of all others proudest of its military fame, were refusing a challenge, are half inclined, like the peasants of Turuy, to propose le cas de mutse to defend the soil. That is not a healthy condition of mind for a great military people, and least of all for a great military people ruled by a dynasty to which success is as the breath of life. It will make war easy on the first occasion, and there are occasions in plenty. Without believing all the rumors which now load the air of every continental capital, it may, we think, be taken for granted that Napoleon and Bismarck are at this moment engaged in a diplomatic war for the possession of Luxemburg. The King of Holland, to whom the Duchy belongs, is willing, it is said, to sell his rights, and the Dutch, who dread entanglements with Germany are willing that it should be sold. The only difficulty in the way is Prussia, which garrisons the fortress, which regards it as an outwork of Germany, which dares not surrender one inch of strictly German soil, and which hopes, and from the necessity of its geographical position will always continue to hope, that Holland may one day be attracted with the Germanic circle. To seat a united Germany upon the Atlantic is a dream no German will willingly resign, and the Prussian King, though, of course, officially most desirous of peace, may object very strenuously to surrender Luxemburg. Napoleon cannot bear to be always baffled; the American complication is over; the French are in the dangerous mood which the idea that their influence is waning always inspires; England is petalyzed by internal dissensions, and indisposed in any event to interfere with France; Germany is exalted till it will bear no menace; the East is stirring and heaving with excitement; all things point to that greatest of earthly calamities—a general European war. We have still three months, for Napoleon must give the signal, and the exhibition does not close till August; but if he lives, and "unforeseen does not arrive," Germany will yet be welded into a harder unity by blows from the outside. Already the mere rumor of menace is doing Count Von Bismark's work, the federal draft is passing as rapidly as if the North German Parliament were filled with soldiers, and, when it is proclaimed, the King of Prussia is Emperor of Germany, with a military dictatorship for three years. And we wonder that on all bourses there are uneasiness and hesitation.

Downfall of Maximilian.

The correspondence, which has been sent to the Senate, between the Austrian Minister and Mr. Seward, asking the interposition of the United States government to protect the person, or save the life, of the Emperor Maximilian, now supposed to be in jeopardy at Queretaro, indicates how completely the Empire set up in Mexico in the name of that Austrian noble has been overthrown; or, rather, how little there was of the elements of stability in the country on which it might rest after the French had withdrawn their support. That Maximilian, in accepting the position of Emperor of Mexico under the circumstances which he did, after years of terrible misrule and disorder in that country, had hope and expectation of accomplishing some good, that his motives were more or less creditable, need not be questioned; therefore, Mr. Seward's ready compliance with the request of the Emperor of Austria to interpose in behalf of his brother, will not be otherwise than commended. Maximilion and the imperial forces are closely besieged, and as the city of Queretaro contains some 50,000 inhabitants, the siege cannot be long sustained. An attempted sally had been made but failed. The aqueduct that supplied the city with water and the roads that supplied it with provision were all cut off and commanded by the liberals. The orders of Juarez are not to assault the place, but to reduce it by starvation and thirst. The Liberals are confident of success, and so far as the news goes, they have reason to expect it. The only chance of Maximilian's escape is to evade the enemy. But even this may not be possible. It is well known that a special corps of cavalry has been organized with the object of capturing the "Austrian," and there is a wide tract of country between Queretaro and the frontier, all occupied by his enemies on the lookout for him. To traverse it with only a small escort would be very unsafe, and to get out of Queretaro with a large force is manifestly impossible without fighting a successful engagement. But while the Empire is thus lost, past redemption, the New Orleans Picayune does not think there is any expectation that the Republic will be established. The people of Mexico are too demoralized to build up by themselves and sustain any government. No one thinks any such thing possible, or troubles himself about it. Maximilian was invited to Mexico by a large portion of the people, and went there only in the belief that he could restore order in the country. When the French left, a large portion of the people besought him to remain, and not leave them in anarchy. He consented, very foolishly, it is true, but nevertheless with a laudable hope that he could be the instrument of accomplishing some good. If captured and hung, as it is said the Mexican leaders have threatened, the deed will reflect eternal disgrace upon the Mexican people.—Baltimore Sun.

Gloomy News from Australia.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin, writing from Melbourne, gives the following review of the state of affairs in the Australian Colonies:

Australia, no doubt, presents a better field for the emigrants than Canada, but is far, far inferior to the United States. Agriculture will not be a paying undertaking, for the reason that there are no markets with large populations for customers and no internal means of locomotion of great extent, no navigable rivers. Her great drawback is her remote position in the world. It is no wonder that immigration has almost ceased and that numbers of able-bodied men cannot find employment; and this is the case all through the Australian Colonies. Queensland, about which so much has been said and written, is completely broken down; her cotton and sugar prospects have vanished and she is plunged into financial bankruptcy. The colony of New South Wales, which has Sydney for its capital, is in a state of rapid decline. Her complaint is want of gold. There was some, but all the inflation founded upon it has collapsed, and her pecuniary troubles are great. A few days since it was stated in the Parliament of that colony that upward of one thousand destitute persons were daily partially fed by Government loaves. The Australian colonies have been pushed ahead too fast. They resemble a hot-house plant exposed to the chill air of the natural climate, and exhibit signs of decay accordingly. Nor is South Australia, of which Adelaide is the capital, in a much better plight; her copper mines are failing; she cannot make her grain pay at 3s. 6d. per bushel—and I may here mention that she is now shipping wheat largely to England—and when an intercolonial tariff shuts the door of Victoria against her she will instinctively collapse. A large number of her farmers are crossing the borders to Victoria, where they think their prospects are more favorable.

Mr. GEORGE MUIR, of Armstrong's Coal Works, Penn township, Allegheny county, speaks as follows of the REV. E. A. WILSON'S Great Remedy for Consumption:

"I was reduced so low with consumption that I was unable to leave my bed, and my physicians informed me that they could do nothing more for me, my case being utterly hopeless, that I had not certainly over a month to live. At this stage I was induced to try REV. E. A. WILSON'S REMEDY, and to-day I am as well as any man in the world. If there are any who doubt this statement, they can call and see me, (as per above address) and I will give them all the particulars of my extraordinary recovery.

A TIMELY WARNING.

It is especially important at this time, when the markets of the United States are flooded with the direst poisons, under the name of imported liquors, and when domestic compounds purporting to be medicinal, but not a whit less pernicious, are heralded to the world as "sovereign remedies," that the public should fully understand the facts. Be it known, then, that while all the diffusive stimulants called liquors are impure, and all the Tonics containing alcohol are manufactured with a fiery article containing amyl or fusel oil, a mortal poison, HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS contain none of these things, but are a combination of pure essence of Rye with the pure juices of the most valuable stomachic, antibilious and aperient herbs and plants, and that as a safe and rapid remedy for Dyspepsia and all its kindred complaints, this preparation stands before the world without a rival or competitor. Its sales to-day are equal to the combined sales of all the other tonics advertised in the United States, and the certificates which authenticate its usefulness are signed by individuals of the highest standing in every professional calling and walk of life. Beware of imitations and imposters.

PINUS ABIES, OR CANADA PINE.

There exudes from the inside bark of the White Pine, which grows abundantly in all the Eastern States and Canada, a honey-like, sweet sustance, highly imbued with that terebinthinate principle which has long been valued as a remedy, in various diseases of the human system, especially those of the mucous tissues. Dr. D. W. Sweet, of Boston, has compounded from this material a medicine called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND; which has met with great favor in those maladies where the turpentines and balsams are supposed to be valuable.

For Gravel's Affections.

Diabetes in young or middle aged people.
Diabetes in old people.
Stoppage of the urine.
The same difficulty in children during the night.
Gravel, Kidney Trouble in old people.
Ulcerated Kidneys, Ulcerated Bladder.

Bright's Disease of the Kidneys.
Pain in the Kidneys or small or the back.
Pain in the bladder, Heat and Scalding, &c., Poland's White Pine Compound will be found the most powerful, permanent cure. It has no less to be valued as a general and bracing constitutional tonic, which imparts its health-giving principles to all the tissues of the body. Without slackening or weakening the system in any way, or disturbing any one in his usual occupations.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC. OFFICE OF THE PACIFIC & ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH CO. OF THE UNITED STATES, Pittsburgh, April 17, 1867. THE PACIFIC AND ATLANTIC Telegraph Company of the United States have contemplated, from the period of its organization, the bringing about such a reduction in the rates of long telegraphic messages as would enable the commercial public to enjoy the facilities of the telegraph for the transmission of letters, thereby causing the telegraph to take, to a large extent, the place of the mail. This reduction they have developed, and would announce that their wires are now open to the public to all points where night operators are employed, for the transmission of messages after six o'clock p. m., at the following rates: Twenty words or less, same as ten words previous to that hour; more than twenty words and not exceeding sixty, twice the usual rate for ten words; sixty words and not exceeding one hundred and twenty words, three times the usual rate for ten words; and for each additional one hundred words, or any part thereof, the usual toll for ten words. A continuation of the same liberal patronage which has heretofore repaid the Company in its efforts to benefit the public is asked. GEO. H. The Consumption of Smoke.

In Great Britain the manufacturing establishments have applied recent inventions for the consumption of smoke, and from all accounts an immense saving of fuel is the result. Scientific gentlemen who have visited that country report favorably upon the patents introduced and wonder that such applications have not long since been introduced into America. Most people are slow to depart from the old beaten paths they have walked nearly a lifetime, and practical new inventions require a long time before their merits can be understood. Here in Pittsburgh, the Birmingham of America, and perhaps destined to be the manufacturing metropolis of the world, thousands upon thousands of dollars worth of fuel is rolled off in dense volumes of smoke into the atmosphere from our mills and factories, and is never considered, even by the shrewdest of economists, worthy of saving. In England, much more progressive in some matters than our own country, the manufactories have enlarged their profits by converting the self same fuel into, If by some philosophical application, the waste smoke, which now with one universal breath discolors our houses, darkens our atmosphere, and sets the laws of cleanliness at defiance, were to be consumed, the benefits accruing would be incalculable. But the time is not far distant when the introduction of smoke consuming apparatus will be general and furnaces fueled with an aliment hitherto disregarded. In the eastern section of the States, at Boston, now undergoing the process of completion, is a gigantic furnace constructed upon a philosophical principle, covered by a patent held by the inventor, Jacob Green, for the consumption of smoke. Several days ago we referred to the scientific merits of this invention, and upon making further inquiry we are more impressed with its adaptability and commendable qualities. We conceive it to be one of the greatest triumphs of American inventiveness of the nineteenth century. The models and drawings have been submitted to a number of the most practical and scientific gentlemen of the nation, some of whom gave examination and study to the inventions in use in Great Britain, and a universal verdict in its favor, over all others in use, has been rendered. Prof. Morton, of the Franklin Institute, has expressed the opinion that by means of this improvement in furnace wrought iron can be produced directly from the ore without undergoing the process of reheating. To iron manufacturers it will prove a novelty to see a furnace, without a single brick higher than eight feet above the level of the ground, which is capable of consuming all smoke and gas. We mean to personally investigate the subject further, as such an invention in these parts would prove a benefit not to be understated to manufacturers and the community at large. Pittsburgh will be content to rest without smoke as long as its mills and while our atmosphere is clear the fucating element enters into our wealth and contributes to our general prosperity and health.

—In St. Louis, last Friday, a German eighteen years old was enticed by three men into a wagon, garroted, and robbed of fifty five dollars. Then they threw the boy into the street and drove rapidly off.

—One hundred and ninety-one barbers in Boston, and eighty-five in the neighboring towns, have petitioned the Legislature to pass a law compelling the closing of barber shops throughout the State on Sunday.

—Queen Victoria has a dusky god son in the person of the Maharajah, the eldest son of his Highness the Maharajah Dhuleep-sing. The christening was performed in the private chapel of Windsor Castle, on March 20th, the Queen standing in person. The child received the name of Victor Albery.

—A member of the Philadelphia Select Council on Thursday offered a resolution instructing the Commissioners on City Property "to have a fountain in each square, surrounded with a lake, covering a half acre or more, being eight or ten inches in depth, which would form an area for such natant exercises as boys would delight in."

—A Maine paper says the snow continues in much greater force upon the soil than last year, and the season seems more backward, but when the snow disappears the soil will come more rapidly into condition for being cultivated, the grass roots, having been so long protected, will start with greater vigor, and the season will be likely to prove quite as favorable as any of the preceding.

—A Minnesota paper, in describing the third-house of its State Legislature, alludes to two practiced railway lawyers, as regular dissectors and manipulators of opinion, the first doing some of the heavy siege work by private converse, while the other quickly mounts the wall and proclaims aloud the advantage of immediate surrender of the opinions matured by the first and elaborated by himself.

—New Grenada is one of those delightful South American countries which is in a state of perpetual revolution. The last movement has been the seizure by Mosquera of sixty-eight of his Congressmen, who are now unpriscned, and great excitement exists throughout the country. The people of New Grenada seem as fully capable of self-government as the people of Mexico, but no more.

—The name by which the new Russian territory is to be known is exciting discussion, and an anonymous paragraphist remarks: "Esquimaux (or better Eskino, according to Latham) would do very well; Sitka is very good; Norland might do, as we are not likely to get anything beyond it. If it is proposed to give any of our generals a cold immortality by it, call it Isickles, after General Sickles."

—A young man named Harry Rivers was poisoned by his landlady in Chicago last Tuesday. The same number of the Tribune which records the fact, mentions also the murder of a man named Tracey by some person not certainly known in order to prevent his appearance as a witness in a case of assault; two cases of probable hydrophobia; the murder of two girls; the rape of a girl thirteen years old by her own father; besides a choice assortment of burglaries, misdemeanors, and minor crimes. Chicago is an enterprising city.

—On Saturday last Mr. George Peabody received a public reception from the people of Danvers, Massachusetts, his native town. He addressed the school children first, and after referring to a touching circumstance that transpired on his last visit, gave them some sound advice. Later in the day Mr. Peabody addressed a large audience of gentlemen and ladies, and in a brief speech referred to the benefits that education had done for Massachusetts, and expressed the hope that the cause would be remembered by the people. His remarks, during both addresses, were frequently applauded, and great enthusiasm prevailed. In the evening Mr. Peabody started for Salem, where he resides while in this country. He will visit Washington on the 18th, for the purpose of receiving Queen Victoria's portrait, and will leave in the Scotia for Europe on the 1st of May.

RIVER NEWS.

The river has risen considerably at this point since the date of our last report, and was still swelling steadily last evening, with eleven feet in the channel by the Allegheny marks. At Oil City there were eight feet. The weather yesterday was pleasant and very favorable for out-door business.

The Glasgow, from St. Louis, arrived on Tuesday evening with a fair trip, though her cargo consisted mainly of iron ore. The Kate Robinson, from the same point, was due last night, and will doubtless be found in port this morning.

The Glendale, with about all the freight she could take, and a good number of passengers, got off yesterday afternoon. The Argosy cleared as usual for Cincinnati with a fair trip, including a number of wagons, which she will ferry for New Orleans.

The Echo left for Oil City last evening, and the Ida Rees, as well as the Urilda, are due here from that point to-day.

The Columbia, Capt. Reed, is filling up slowly for the Upper Mississippi, and will be the first boat from that point. The Importer, Capt. Noss, is now in turn for St. Louis, and will be ready to take her departure in a few days. The Columbia is the only boat loading at present for the Upper Mississippi.

The Ezra Porter, Capt. J. H. Porter, is the regular Saturday packet for Cincinnati. The Ezra offers superior accommodations for passengers, and being a large sidewheeler, her cabins and state rooms are commodious and neat, while her officers are experienced and courteous. The American, Capt. T. H. Goldius, will be the first boat out for New Orleans.

The Kate Putnam is next in turn for St. Louis after the Importer, then the Minnie, and after her the Maggie Hays. The R. C. Gray, we presume, will commence loading for Cincinnati and Louisville before many days elapse.

The towboat Hercules, with a big tow of coal for J. Sharp McDonald, will leave today. The A. J. Baker, we think, will be remembered, run her tow aground at the head of the falls at Louisville, has at last succeeded in getting off with the loss of time gone on her way South rejoicing. It is probable that more towboats will get out today and to-morrow, the river being in excellent condition for running coal.

The following named towboats reached Louisville on the last freshet: Ajax, Boaz, Alps, Panther, Grand Duke, Shamrock, Bengal Tiger, Fred Wilson, Resolute, Little Alps, Hercules, Sampson, Stella, Dart, Warner and Collier.

The Louisville papers of Monday contain the following:

The Rover, from Pittsburgh, with barges in tow containing 1300 tons of railroad iron, descended the falls, bound for St. Louis, and the famous towboat T. D. Horner, with barges laden with products, also descended the falls. Among the towboats burdening the canal and lower wharf yesterday were the Alps, Stella, Eagle, Resolute, Bengal Tiger, Boaz and Ajax. They all had upward of one million bushels of coal in tow. The Bengal Tiger had 900,000 bushels of coal for the Tennessee Rolling Mill. The Eagle was bound for Pittsburgh with a tow of empty barges, and will be gone some thirty miles up the river, broke some portion of her machinery and turned back here to repair damages. The Grand Duke, Dubuque, Gray master, came in from Pittsburgh yesterday, bound for St. Louis and further North. She is a fine boat and Captain Varble steered her over the falls.

The St. Louis Republican, after publishing the facts in connection with the steamer Louisiana's gratuitously assisting the Indiana—which latter boat was aground at Plumb Point during the reign of the ice season—says:

The above "reminds" us of a story told last winter by an old and popular steamboat captain of this city, who said that quite a number of years since he was coming up the river with his boat, and when near Paquemine found one of the coast packets "out on the bank," he was hailed for assistance, which was duly rendered, and a bill for $500 was presented and duly paid, some months after, to the boat coming up with his boat, and when at almost the identical spot ran aground. After some hours during the same night, he drove in sight and was hailed for assistance, which was also furnished with the same successful result. Our captain, who was on the coast man for the last bill, and received in reply, "In this part of the country we don't charge gentlemen for such trivial service," and turning to his pilot gave the order to "back off." Our captain says that from that day to this he has made it a point never to pass a boat in distress without offering assistance, and never to charge for his services except under the most extraordinary circumstances.

The Memphis Bulletin, noticing the arrival of the Richmond at that place, says: Considerable sensation was caused on the wharf yesterday by the arrival of the new low pressure steamer Richmond. She has come and gone; we have seen her, and are free to give an opinion. She is a great steamer trully, but like almost everything of the kind "trotted out" by Louisville, has been greatly overrated. Her model is fine, and undoubtedly she is fast, but inwardly she will hardly compare with the Great Republic or the Eclipse, except as regards size and equipment of state rooms.

We also extract the following items from the same paper: Mr. Murphy, from the other side of the Atlantic, came down on the City of Cairo, and while asleep, night before last, was robbed of jewelry to the amount of one hundred dollars, by some one who entered her stateroom. She was not aware, she said, that this was among the customs of the country, and further remarked to Larry Hanstad, to whom she related her adventures, that she did not care so much about the loss of the jewelry as the fact that a man entered her room while she was asiecp and she not knowing it." "What else could he have done?" she concluded. Mrs. Murphy appeared to be intelligent, and will soon learn if we are a fast people in America.

A man calling himself Darling, professing to be one of the editors of the Cleveland Plaindealer, and a correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, was in town from the Richmond. He has been knocking about town several days, and during that time borrowed money with no intention to pay it without paying his creditors. This darling is commended to our brethren of the press further South. Let them look out for him. He visited these parts during the war, and then traveled under the name and style of "Simeclair, of the New York Herald," if we mistake not, he is a perfect dead-beat.

The New Orleans Crescent, of the 16th, makes the following announcement, which we published yesterday in the following important intelligence to steamboatmen, taken from the St. Louis Republican:

"Mr. Benj. Crawford, special agent for the Treasury Department, has decided any Stocked valve may be placed on the boilers of a steamboat, provided it comes up to the requirements of the law; he also decided that but one 'locked' valve is required, no matter how many boilers may be in a battery."

And now we have a full confirmation of the fact in a telegram to Captain John W. Cannon, received yesterday, who favors us with a perusal. The dispatch is dated St. Louis, April 9th, and says that the good operating locked valve for the battery."
